The dog had torn pieces of flesh from the child's arms and legs as he lay screaming on the sid-walk, and, as he came near the bull dog had taken a fresh grip in the face of the boy, to which it clung with the tenacity of its nature. Mr. Thompson kicked the brute, and used other means to make it loosen its hold, but it was not until he had put a strap around its neck and twisted it until the dog choked, that it let go its deadly grip. The bleeding and almost unconscious child was taken home and medical assistance summoned, but it is feared that the shock will prove fatal. An officer hunted up the dog and killed it.

WORDS OF WARNING

From the Governor General of Canton China. NEW YORK, March 3.-A Washingto special to the Herald says: The following cablegram has been received by the Chinese Minister from the Governor General of Canton. The lawlessness in California is evidently breeding trouble for our own people in China: "CANTON, Feb. 25, 1886.

His Excellency Cheng, Chinese Minister, "His Excellency Cheng, Chinese Minister, Washington:
"A cablegram is received from Chinese merchants at San Francisco stating that Chinese in the United States have been most outrageously attacked. Hearing of this news Canton people are furious. Retaliation is threatened. How did the American Government act in this matter? Can you not ask the President to adopt measures for protection of Chinese there and for prevention of these inhuman acts, in order to preserve the good friendship of the two countries? Otherwise the consequences here may be serious. ces here may be serious.

And so it happens that after an existence of nearly twenty years of almost innocuous desuetude, these laws are brought forth, apparently the r. pealed as well as the unrepealed, and put in the way of an Executive who is willing, if permitted, to attempt an improvement in the methods of administration. The constitutionality of these laws is by no means admitted. But why should the provisions of the repealed law, which required specific cause for suspension and a report to the Senate of "evidence and casens," be now, in effect, applied to the present Executive instead of the law, afterward passed and unrepealed, which distinctly permits suspensions by the President "in his discretion," and carefully omits the requirement that "evidence and reasons for his action in the case" shall be reported to the Senate?

The requests and demands which by the score have for nearly three months been presented to the different departments of the Government, what ever may be their form, have but one complexion. They assume the right of the Senate to sit in judgment upon the exercise of my exclusive discretion and Executive function, for which I am solely responsible to the people from whom I have so lately received the sacred trust of office. Moath to support and defend the Constitution, my duty to the people who have chosen me to execute the powers of their great office and not to relinquish them, and my duty to the Chief Magristracy which I must preserve unimpaired to all its dignity and vigor, compel me to refuse to comply with these demands.

which I must preserve unimpaired to al its dignity and vigor, compel me to refuse to comply with these demands.

To the end that the service may be improved the Senate is invited to the fullest scrutiny of the persons submitted to them for public office, in recognition of the censitutional power of that body to advise and consent to their appointment. I will continue, as I have thus far, done, to furnish, at the request of the confirming body, all the information I possess touching the fitness of the nominees placed before them for their action, both when they are proposed to fill vacaroles and take the place of suspended offices. Upon a refusal to confirm I chail not assume the right to ask the reasons for the action of the Senate, nor question its determination. I can not think that anything more is re uired to secure worthy incumbents in public office than a careful and independent discharge of our respective duties within their well defined limits. Though the propriety of suspensions might be better assured if the action of the President was ambiect to review by the Senate, yet if the Constitution and the laws have placed this responsibility upon the Executive branch of the Government it should not be divided nor be discretion which it involved relinquished.

It has been claimed that the present Executive, having pledged himself not to remove officials except for cause, the fact of their suspension implies such misconduct on the part of a suspended official as it injures his character and reputation, and therefore the Senate should review the case for his vindication.

I have said that certain officials should not, in my opinion, be removed during the continuance of the term for which they were appointed solely for the purpose of putting in their place those in political affiliation with the appointing power; and the deciaration was immediately followed by a description of official partisanship which ought not to entitle those in whom it was exhibited to consideration. It is not apparent how an adherence to
